National Conference on Didactics

March 27th, 2020, Pondicherry

“Didactics of imparting oral skills: Challenges in the field, Reflections and Solutions”

When imparting French as a foreign language class (FLE), it becomes difficult to effectively deal with the oral skills (listening and speaking) at school and university level due to time and institutional constraints. Responding to this reality, this symposium intends to discuss the innovative practices which could effectively integrate these oral skills in a traditional classroom and to create a forum for discussion to debate the importance of policy making in order to include the assessment of oral skills in Indian public exams.

This conference proposes 5 areas of study:

- 1: Teaching oral skills at school or university level: Methodologies and practices .What are the new approaches?
- 2: Various constraints linked to the allocation of time to oral activities. What are the solutions?
- 3: Oral skills and Indian French textbooks. What are the observations?
- 4: Oral activities and multimedia at school / university. What are the challenges?
- 5: Development of policies for the evaluation system: what are the proposals for a new update ?
